Health Sciences Reasoning Test (HSRT)

The Health Science Reasoning Test (HSRT) is the admittance exam required for the Bachelors of Science in Occupational Science Program at Eastern Kentucky University. The HSRT measures critical reasoning and decision-making processes for trainees in health sciences educational programs.

The ECU Office of Academic Testing offers the HSRT exam on dates and times listed on their website, <http://testing.eku.edu/health-science-reasoning-test>. To schedule an appointment, examinees may phone 859-622-1281 or send an email to academic.testing@eku.edu. The HSRT is administered on ECU's Richmond campus in the Office of Academic Testing, Whitlock Bldg., Room 340.

In-person testing on the Richmond campus is $12. Students wishing to take the HSRT admittance exam online may do so for an additional Examity proctoring service fee of $17.50 (Total fee for online testing = $29.50) A laptop or desktop computer with a camera and microphone is required for long-distance proctoring.

There is no minimum score for the purposes of program admission eligibility. Additionally, examinees may only take the test one time.

Accommodations – Examinees who require accommodations must work in conjunction with the ECU Center for Student Accessibility to secure the appropriate paperwork. The CSA may be contacted by calling 859-622-2933 or by visiting <http://accessibility.eku.edu/>. Students are responsible for obtaining permission for accommodation(s) at least 48 hours in advance of a scheduled testing session.

For any questions contact the ECU Department of Occupational Science and Occupational Therapy, 103 Dizney Building, (859) 622-3300.
